

DR. MIKE FROSTAD

Undergraduate: Washington State University
Pullman, WA

Medical School: University of Washington School of Medicine
Seattle, WA

Residency: University of South Florida
Tampa, FL

Certifications: American Board of Pediatrics

"I'm a dedicated pediatrician committed to helping parents raise happy, healthy children. With evidence-based practices and medical counseling, I partner with families on this rewarding journey."

Why a Pediatrician?

I wanted to be a physician so I could help people. My father was a Pediatrician here at Palouse Pediatrics for over 40 years. In medical school, I initially wanted to focus on something a little different than what my father did. I thought I was heading towards Emergency Medicine instead of pediatrics, but during my medical school rotations, I soon found that I was a lot happier when I was dealing with the younger patients and I realized that I was best suited for pediatrics.

Personal Interests?

I enjoy outdoor activities like fishing, camping and skiing with family and friends. I like building gadgets in my garage with my welder and I would someday like to design and build my own boat.